Please Note: Some of the projects in Quilter's Academy Master's Year may require purchase of or access to previous books in the series. After dismissing pretty much the entire community of Modern Quilters in the introduction to Quilter's Academy Master's Year, the Professors Hargrave present a curriculum based specifically on Medallion Quilts. Beautiful historical examples are well-photographed and of sufficient size for proper admiration. Accuracy is critical at the master's level, and Medallion quilts exemplify this. Their long rows of joined pieces must be further joined with other long rows of perfectly joined pieces. Lots of stretchy bias can be result, especially when on-point blocks make up the rows. The instructors point out that bias plus the weight of a quilt top can cause significant distortion if you rely on a vertical design wall. Hands-on drafting is introduced via the most basic medallion project. Skill levels of the 12 projects/courses range from graduate basic to graduate advanced. The ultimate goal is to acquire sufficient design skills so you can create your own unique medallion project ... a master's thesis, as it were. Instructions are quite detailed and lengthy. Some are traditional step-by-step with exact cutting and yardage specifications. Others involve deriving measurements from actual quilts, while others extrapolate dimensions from photographs. Our teachers implore us to act responsibly, ethically, and legally by adhering to copyrights. This topic can and perhaps should be its own full length quilt book. Simply crediting a source is not necessarily sufficient. Public domain is not to be assumed just because something is seen "in public" in a store, through a class, or on the internet.
